American Eagle Outfitters jackets

I was out running some last minute trip errands today and decided to stop at AE to pick up some more undies, you can never pack too many! Sorry if tmi lol but I just love the Aerie boybriefs. They are so comfortable.

Anyway, I remembered Appgal's post on Gigi's fab blog about a new Chanel-ish AE jacket. I spotted it right away and had to try it on. The salesman let me know that although they are only advertising hoodies and tees on sale, the jackets were also buy one get one half off, "for today only!". I love a store that makes an effort, so I grabbed a second jacket off the rack to try.

First we have the Prep School blazer. I cannot find this one online but the Sku is 160815131, it retails for $59.50. The shell of the jacket is a dark grey cotton herringbone. It is lined in navy blue poly with blue and bright pink piping. The collar is also lined in a navy, white, and pink tie stripe. The blazer is seriously cute with the collar popped. The jacket is accented with antique silver colored anchor buttons and a gold emblem sewn onto the pocket. I think the Prep school blazer is nicely constructed and the perfect weight for Fall. The fabric is soft and not itchy at all.

This jacket fit true to size for me. I thought I might have to size up, I use to have to buy a medium in AE shirts but the extra small was the best fit for me.
